

Featured Speaker

Dr. Terri Rosado,
DVM, CVA, CCRT, CVFT, CTNP

Dr. Terri graduated from the University of California, Davis, School of Veterinary Medicine in 2005, and is certified in Mixed Animal Acupuncture from the Chi Institute in Reddick, FL. As a full-time associate in Palm Coast, FL (2006 to 2010), Dr. Terri continued to focus on preventative medicine, senior well-care, and integrative care for her small animal patients.

From 2010 to 2012, Dr. Terri was the Managing Veterinarian at St. Augustine Regional Veterinary Emergency Center, then opened her own integrative clinic in October 2012. Dr. Terri is on faculty at the Chi Institute of Traditional Chinese Veterinary Medicine and is in the Master's program for Traditional Chinese Veterinary Medicine, Class of 2020.

CONTACT US

Ashley.nakaoka@wsu.edu

Integrating Acupuncture Into Veterinary Medicine

October 5, 2019 • 9AM - 4PM

Bustad Hall 145, 1845 Ott Rd, Pullman, WA 99163

Presented by the World Association of Traditional Chinese Veterinary Medicine

Acupuncture has a 2000-year history of treating a variety of conditions including pain and geriatric diseases in humans and has also been utilized with success in animal medicine, especially for chronic issues. The Chinese developed their own diagnostic method using patient observation, such as tongue color, and palpation to determine both internal and external diseases. The diagnosis is described in terms of organ Qi (chi), blood, yin and yang abnormalities and dictates the acupuncture point selection.

Join us to learn how acupuncture can supplement your conventional practice and increase treatment options for your patients. Dr. Terri Rosado, D.V.M., will be providing an introduction to acupuncture and making a TCVM diagnosis.

Registration Fee Paid On-site (Cash/check):

Non-WSU veterinarians— $100

Non-WSU veterinary technicians—$60

Current WSU students/veterinarians/technicians—Free

Lunch:

Provided to those that RSVP by September 25, 2019 by clicking here.

